Recommendations:

A: Parent: Nicole's persistence and resilience has always been her strongest suits. Even when she has multiple responsibilities on her hand, she always completed each and every one of them meticulously. She plans everything, makes notes and scheduled her activities carefully on her calendar, prepare everything she would need ahead of time. Her multitasking ability always amazes us. Although as parents we worry and try to make her to slow down but she actually enjoys all her activities. We know she can be a great leader and excel in anything she has her heart on. Her excellent organizational skill will make sure her tasks completed perfectly each time.

B: Chapter: Nicole's journey in FCCLA has been something that I have been watching since middle school. From her first time being affiliated in the club as a member to competing and being a region officer she has demonstrated growth and resilience at anything that is thrown at her. She is dedicated and shows hard work through all of her activities both inside of school and outside, while having a compassionate heart in helping others in their tasks. Nicole is organized with her notes and strives to make improvement at anything she does. Her willingness and attentiveness has allowed the region to flourish and plan new ideas, while keeping everyone in check. I know that Nicole would excel as a state officer with her fun personality and dedication to the association.
